People's attendance of museums and galleries"
 Nowadays, the question of people visiting educational facilities has heat debates. That is why I have chosen this topic for my project.

Main part of my project is source-Social Statistics, so my report will be based on its data. I would like to summarize the number of visitors — we can see that it has been growing for five years. In 2013-13.7 mln people, in 2015-14.2 mln, in 2017-16.1 mln. Sure, the number is increasing, but the problem is that for some museums and galleries it is falling.

For instance, comparing visitors of British museums to Natural History Museum: for the first one the number is growing, while for the second it's decreasing. Also, pay attention to Science Museum and National Gallery — there is a big difference too.

Personally, I think I can give some recommendations to the museum boards of directors. I am young and I can present new generation, so it might be interesting to read. Firstly, young people in such places should be treated respectively. It really can help because serious attitude can attract attention of young generation.

And also for them directors should organize exhibitions and programmes, which are actual and trendy. Secondly, British Museum is rated really good, and by visiting it ^{or} you can learn more about its offers and things that make Museum more interesting — try to make something similar.

To sum up, I hope my report was interesting and substantial try to use my recommendations ~~to~~ practically.
